

“America tried to come for me! She started shaping her identity at the same time she intensified her relationship with cake. She tried to come for us all...”

Makin' Cake

with Dasha Kelly Hamilton

Slice into a community conversation on culture, class, race and cake.

Layer One • Creativity-based dialogue series with residents. Conversation and creations will inform the show.

Layer Two • Export residents' key messages and dialogue themes for a broader community discussion.

Layer Three • Deliver Makin' Cake, a 75-minute one-woman performance with projected media and two live bakers.

Layer Four • Host a cake reception, spotlighting local bakers and answering post-show questions.

“As an artist, Dasha gathers the ingredients by bringing people and conversation together; she sifts through the discussions and narratives to create layers that people cannot wait to slide their forks through.”
~Ann Brusky, Curator for Public Programs, JMKAC

INQUIRIES AND BOOKINGS: chad@dashakelly.com

Conceived, written and performed by Dasha Kelly Hamilton

Commissioned by JOHN MICHAEL KOHLER

ARTS CENTER

